Historic Calendar Available at the New Mexico State University Library

An attractive and educational 2004 calendar is now available from the New Mexico State University Library's Rio Grande Historical Collections.

Entitled "New Mexico: The Land and Its People," the large-sized calendar features historic images of people working on the land and enjoying the outdoors. The striking photographs were taken between 1880 and 1940 at White Sands, the Organ Mountains, the farms and ranches of the Mesilla Valley, the Mescalero Apache Reservation, and other locations in southern New Mexico.

Copies of the calendar, which make wonderful gifts, can be purchased at the second-floor offices of Zuhl Library for six dollars each.

To see the cover image of the calendar on the web, visit <http://archives.nmsu.edu/rghc/2004calendar.htm>.
