Martha Shipman Andrews Joins Library Staff

Martha Shipman Andrews has joined the Archives and Special Collections Department of the New Mexico State University Library as processing archivist for the Hobson-Huntsinger University Archives.

Martha comes to New Mexico State University from The Madeira School, a girls' boarding and day preparatory school in McLean, Virginia, where she planned and implemented an institutional archives program. Most recently, she was involved in preparing and planning for the school's upcoming Centennial celebration. She wrote a biographical essay on its founder, Lucy Madeira Wing, for inclusion in a commemorative book to be published next year.

Martha Shipman Andrews

A graduate of Wellesley College with a B.A. in art history, Martha received her master's degree in information and library science with a concentration in archival studies from the University of Pittsburgh. Martha has a particular interest in archival awareness and outreach programs. A lifelong art collector, Martha also enjoys playing the piano and supporting the musical careers of both her children. She is presently collaborating on a research project involving college and university alma maters.
